Exclude Network Drive from backup

Overview

inSync has introduced the capability to exclude network mounts from backup to avoid backing up large amounts of data from network shares.

Mac and Linux users can opt to exclude network mounts from the backup cycle if they do not want inSync to back up specific network shared folders.

As an administrator, you can configure inSync to exclude network mounts from backup.

Procedure

If you want to define network mount backup behavior from your backups, submit a request to Support.